News Headlines and Key Sector Developments

The Australian market finished the week 0.04% higher with the S&P/ASX200 ending at 5994 points, with losses in bank stocks offset by a rally in the property sector following Unibail-Rodamco's $32 billion takeover bid for Westfield. The Australian dollar finished the week 1.87% higher to end at US76.44 cents, buoyed by positive November jobs figure, while the US dollar declined following a cautious inflation outlook from the US Federal Reserve (which reduced market expectations of quicker interest rate rises in the US).

Genex Power Ltd (GNX.AX) announced on 12 December 2017 that it has appointed UGL, a wholly-owned subsidiary of CIMIC Group Ltd (CIM.AX), as its preferred EPC Contractor for the 270MW Kidston Stage 2 Solar project.

RenewEconomy reported on 10 December 2017 that Maoneng Australia has signed a 15-year PPA with AGL for the equivalent of a 300MW solar PV plant, with the bulk of this capacity to be met with the proposed 250MW Sunraysia solar PV plant near Balranald in NSW, while the rest will be met by its other "shovel ready" projects, such as its Midgar solar farm or projects held by other parties.

The Clean Energy Finance Corporation announced on 15 December 2017 that it has committed $207 million in debt finance to accelerate the 110MW Wemen Solar Farm in VIC and the 90MW Clermont Solar Farm in QLD that are being developed by WIRSOL Energy. With the latest commitments, CEFC has now committed to 20 large-scale solar projects since 2013, helping to accelerate the delivery of more than 1GW in additional solar energy.

ANZ and CEFC announced on 14 December 2017 that it is establishing a $150 million program to help Australian businesses cut energy costs and reduce carbon emissions through innovation. Through the program, ANZ can offer a 0.70% discount to business customers on the standard asset finance rate for new assets up to $5 million that meet CEFC's energy efficiency requirements.

RenewEconomy reported on 12 December 2017 that a new 80MW solar farm has been proposed for development in Tamworth, NSW, by Oriens Energy. The site, which was in early stages of approval, was planned for development on a site strategically placed within the NSW and QLD transmission network.
